1. Executive Summary & Key Judgments

This report documents the systemic collaboration between Anglo-American corporate entities and the Nazi Party (NSDAP) from the 1920s to the present. It posits that the "Victory" of 1945 was a branding exercise; the functional industrial-financial apparatus of the Third Reich was successfully integrated into the United States' "Black Budget" infrastructure via Yale's Order of Skull and Bones.

Key Judgments:

- Institutional Treason: Major US and British firms provided the logistical, chemical, and financial "blood" for the Nazi war machine throughout WWII.
- The Paperclip Pivot: Post-1945, these interests were shielded and absorbed into the American Security State to maintain a permanent war economy.
- Modern Continuity: The same "Conflict Arbitrage" model persists today through entities like the Carlyle Group, linking the Bush/Bonesmen network to Saudi capital and the Bin Laden family.

2. Scope & Intelligence Requirements

Mapping the specific corporations (American and British) that facilitated Nazi rise/survival and their current iterations in the modern Military-Industrial-Commercial Complex.

3. Background: The Bonesmen Financial Nexus

Since the 1920s, Brown Brothers Harriman (BBH) and the Union Banking Corporation (UBC), directed by Prescott Bush (S&B 1917), served as the primary financial clearinghouse for Fritz Thyssen, the industrialist who funded Hitler's rise.

4. Corporate Analysis: The Collaborators (1920s–1945+)

4.1. American Corporations

Company	Contribution to Nazi War Machine	Integration Post-WWII
Standard Oil (Exxon)	Provided tetraethyl lead (fuel additive) to the Luftwaffe; shared patents with I.G. Farben.	Became a cornerstone of the global petroleum-security complex.
Ford Motor Co.	Produced 1/3 of the trucks for the German Army via Ford Germany.	Received reparations from the US govt for damage to its German plants.
IBM	Provided the punch-card technology (Hollerith machines) to track/categorize Holocaust victims.	Lead contractor for the Department of Defense and early CIA data processing.
General Motors (Opel)	Built the "Blitz" truck, the backbone of the Wehrmacht.	Integrated into the MIC; major defense contractor.
Chase Bank (J.P. Morgan)	Froze Jewish accounts and exchanged marks for the Nazis after the US entered the war.	Central to the Federal Reserve and modern global finance.
IT&T	Built the Focke-Wulf bombers and provided communication gear for the Gestapo.	Became a global telecommunications giant with deep intelligence ties.

4.2. British Corporations

Company	Contribution to Nazi War Machine	Integration Post-WWII
Royal Dutch Shell	Provided critical fuel supplies and funded Nazi political campaigns (via Sir Henri Deterding).	Major stakeholder in global energy policy.
Bank of England	Facilitated the transfer of Czech gold to the Reichsbank after the Nazi invasion.	Central node in the City of London financial nexus.
Imperial Chemical Industries (ICI)	Maintained a cartel agreement with I.G. Farben until the war's end.	Evolved into modern pharmaceutical and chemical giants (AstraZeneca/Syngenta lineage).

5. Network Mapping: Carlyle, the Bin Ladens, and the Saudis

The "Conflict Arbitrage" model evolved into the Carlyle Group (founded with significant input from the Bush/Bones network).

- The Bin Laden Connection: The Bin Laden family were investors in Carlyle alongside the Bush family. On 9/11, members of the Bin Laden family were meeting with Carlyle executives in Washington. [Source 12]
- The 9/11 Discrepancy: The 28 pages of the 9/11 report indicated Saudi state involvement in supporting the hijackers, yet the Bush administration maintained the "Black

Budget" relationship with Saudi intelligence—the same "Trading with the Enemy" blueprint established in the 1930s. [Source 17]

6. Financial Intelligence: The Black Budget Continuity

The Pentagon Black Budget serves as the modern "Reichsbank"—an unaccountable pool of capital used to fund off-book operations that generate the "Threats" (enemies) required to justify the existence of the MIC.
